
The Complete List of Precautions Taken Against Covid-19 at Moral & Partners

Dear Esteemed Friends, Colleagues, and Clients,

As coronavirus (Covid-19) began to spread globally, we announced that all Moral & Partners team had switched to the home office execution program. We aim to protect our team, their families, and their close environment. Since the first day of Covid-19 in Turkey every member of our Moral & Partners Law Firm has been available via phones, e-mails and digital meetings.

The precautions that we take against coronavirus since the first day of Covid-19 in Turkey are given below for your kind information:

- All IT and cybersecurity infrastructure is ready for the home office execution program,
- All our team is accessible via e-mails and their mobiles,
- All main lines of our offices are accessible, and our office assistants inform our team regarding your calls,
- Our team has been informed regarding occupational health and safety implications,
- All meetings except emergencies or situations that require physical existence are being held via video and teleconferences,
- All common areas and offices are being disinfected,
- Individual attendance and representation services are being rendered on hearings and meetings upon necessity,
- We proactively inform our clients regarding any postponement on hearings due to healthcare measures,
- A new working group regarding COVID-19 and its implications has been formed and will keep all clients updated regarding its potential effects on business life and legislation changes.

We wish you a healthy and safe environment!
